Author's Notes:
Just a quick, little idea. :)

As soon as the camera arrived, they were on, twisting faces this way, witty barbs that way, all glued together by smirks and laughter. The cameraman happily obliged, giving in to their lures.

Jens perched himself atop the armrest beside him. "Are they still going at it?"

He glanced up, bored. "What do you think?"

Four hours later, and yes: smiling faces pressed close, it took but a twist to press lips to cheek. A squealed laugh, hands gripped jaw and two sets of lips smacked together.

Jens and Felix stared at their giggling, lingering bassists.

Discussions were in order.
